

The Kato-Nakayama Space

Hülya Argüz

In this talk we will briefly review logarithmic geometry and its use in mirror symmetry. Then we will describe the Kato-Nakayama Space, that is a topological space one can functorially assign to any log scheme. We'll specifically describe the Kato-Nakayama space over the central fibre of a toric degeneration.