Set-theoretic aspects of the real numbers

Ilya Sharankou

I talk about the reals and of what interest is that central mathematical object to the set-theorists. The talk will include a reminder of what cardinals are good for and I'll try to draw connections between measurability and cardinal invariants on reals.